

IN A PICKLE THE STORY OF THE SHOW

Baabara is a Shepherdess. That means that her job is to look after the sheep and the baby lambs. Today she is having a party for the sheep and you are all invited. The sheep will show you how to make the sound of a sheep – Baa! and how to look like a sheep. They will show you all their favourite things that they have at their party. Can you guess what the sheep like best?

After the party, Baabara and the sheep feel very tired. They sing a Lulla-Baa and they all fall asleep. They are woken up by a strange noise. “Is that a sheep?” asks Baabara. No. It’s a baby, a baby who is wearing a crown. What sort of baby wears a crown? In fact she is a baby princess.

The Black Sheep is given the job of looking after the baby and they go on a sea voyage to find the Palace of the King and Queen. They are the princess’s Maa and Paa.

The Mariner agrees to take us all on her beautiful golden ship. The sea gets rough but then we get through the bad weather.

When we reach the Palace, we find the King but he is very, very upset. The Black Sheep shows the King the baby princess and she makes him feel better. They want to tell the Queen that her baby daughter has been found but the Queen is so sad that she is as still and cold as a statue. What can the King do? Will the baby bring the Queen back to life? Yes, she does.

Now we have something to celebrate! They all dance and sing.
