

A World

Beneath Us

Social Story

A World Beneath Us is a sensory show made by Oily Cart that is sent to families' homes.

It's made of a sensory box and a sensory film.

A World Beneath Us explores the explores the idea that each of us is an important part of an ecosystem.

An ecosystem is a group of living beings that are together in a specific place.

The work focuses on being with nature, rather than doing things to the world.

It explores how we can be more connected with the world through our senses.

It is Co-directed by

Greta Chambers McMillan and

Natalya Martin.

The box is made of 3 experiences:
Forest floor

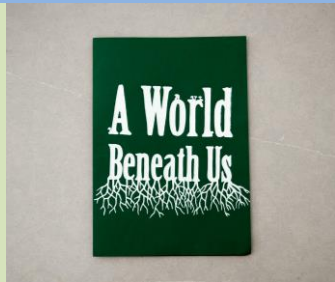

Bodies of water

Tree canopies

Watch the sensory film, you can enjoy it alongside your box experience or by itself.

There is a booklet with resources, allergens and guidance for how to use the box.

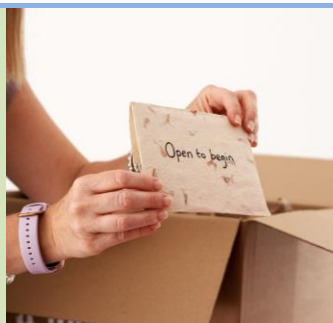

Notes in different envelopes will guide your experience.

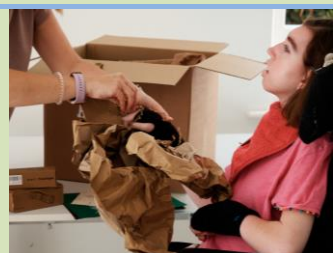

You can also scan the QR codes to watch explainer videos and accompanying videos, for the experiences and box.

Find a place in your house to begin this journey.

Find the "Open to begin" note and read it with your young person.

You can explore the texture of the note and the brown packaging material.

If you have questions, you can reach out to oilies@oilycart.org.uk or our Access and Wellbeing Officer Maka access@oilycart.org.uk